These very handsome and most useful plants are of very easy culture in ordinary garden soil. The lists of sorts we give is a selection from a vast number of species and varieties that we have grown, many of which we did not find worthy of cultivation in a garden. The kinds we offer are distinct and good, and in some cases extremely handsome, all are of great utility for effect in borders and for cutting at a time when little else is in flower.

30/- per 100, except those priced.

AMARYLLIDS (Hippeastrums).

THE GARDEN, June 13th, 1891.—In addition, Messrs. KELWAY staged a well assorted variety of Amaryllids, both dark and light kinds, selfs and striped; these made a brilliant show and testify to their value as decorative plants at this season of the year. SILVER-GILT FLORA MEDAL.

DAILY CHRONICLE, May 29th, 1890.—Opening of the Royal Horticultural Society's Show, by the Prince of Wales, at the Temple.—Messrs. KELWAY & SON, Langport, had an extensive and handsome collection of Amaryllis, for which they received the Silver-gilt Flora Medal.

THE GARDEN, April 12th, 1890.—Not much has been said or written at any time of the good work done in the Nurseries of Messrs. Kelway, at Langport, Somerset. They have boldly struck out a course of their own, and have made excellent progress in cultivating them on the half-hardy system. They have now a stock of 20,000 (at the present time nearly doubled, K. & S.), named varieties and seedlings. . . Doubtless, a hardy strain has been obtained by selection, and as an assortment of them has been exhibited in London, and may be again, the public have had sufficient opportunity to judge what they are like. There are rich and decided colours amongst them . . . they are very elegant; and, being so easily cultivated, they must be excellent subjects for those who would like to possess such flowers, but are not able to afford the luxury of a hot-house.

THE GARDEN, June 14th, 1890.—Royal Horticultural Society, June 10th. . . The Amaryllids were worth noting for their extreme lateness, the result of quite cold treatment; thus we have a dwarf sturdy habit. There were several varieties, but such self kinds as ERNEST KELWAY and RUBY, rich crimson, are the most striking. (Silver Gilt Medal.)

DOUBLE CINERARIAS.

From "GARDENERS' CHRONICLE," 1883, page 659.—"The fine varieties of double-flowered Cinerarias that Messrs. Kelway have raised, may be the means of exciting a new interest in them."

The strain is exceedingly pretty.

For two of our varieties, BEATRICE KELWAY, white with rose tips; and QUEEN VICTORIA, pure white, faintly tinged violet crimson, we have received FIRST-CLASS CERTIFICATES, ROYAL HORTICULTURAL SOCIETY, April 24th, 1888.

Fine Named Varieties, 60/- per 100.

KELWAY'S DELPHINIUMS.

CUTTINGS FROM THE ENGLISH PRESS.

THE QUEEN, July 4, 1891.—ROYAL AQUARIUM.—Messrs. KELWAY's Delphiniums, for which the firm is so well known, were very striking.

GARDENERS' MAGAZINE, July 11, 1891.—R.H.S.—A splendid group came from Messrs. KELWAY & SON, filling one side of the tent . . . It was one of the finest collections of Delphiniums we have seen.

THE GARDENERS' MAGAZINE, August 1, 1891.—Delphiniums from Langport remind us of what Messrs. KELWAY & SON have accomplished with this noble border plant. All who have visited the summer shows this season, the hardy flower conference, and the meetings of the Royal Horticultural Society in particular, must have been charmed with the unique displays made by the firm, flowers that represent the Delphinium in its best aspect. The blooms sent were gathered from spikes about three feet six inches in length, set in the midst of spikelets borne by stems from four to nine feet high. They continue in beauty over a long season, the relays of spikelets maintaining the floral display, and the cylindrical stems are crowded with flowers of varied colours, from rose to the deepest blue, sometimes set off with a peculiar bronzy tint of great richness.

THE GARDEN, August 15, 1891.—Delphiniums are eminently fitted for the same situations (borders) and the Messrs. KELWAY, and others who have paid such attention to these plants, and so improved the varieties, deserve the best thanks of all who have gardens.

THE NORTHERN GARDENER, June 18, 1891.—R.H.S. Conference at Chiswick.—Messrs. KELWAY & SON were well to the front. How nobly they displayed Delphiniums!—great massive spikes of flowers like floral sentinels on duty.

THE GARDENING WORLD, June 27, 1889.—R.H.S. Show, June 25.—The Delphiniums were a superb lot, and several were certificated.

We have, through careful hybridization, made more advance into new paths of beauty with the Delphinium than has been made with any class of plants in recent years. Those who have seen our choice new hybrids exhibited in London, will bear us out when we make this statement; those who have not yet seen them can really have no idea of the difference existing and the improvement in form, colour and robustness upon the better known older sorts.

HERBACEOUS AND ALPINE PLANTS.

NOTES:—It must be understood that any of the following plants, unless it is distinctly specified otherwise, will thrive in any ordinary garden soil, but that in the soil mentioned they flourish to still greater perfection, and that where easily done, it will pay to afford them the particular treatment we recommend.

The words we print in small capitals, in brackets, are the vulgar names of the family to which the plant belongs, not necessarily the common name for that particular species or variety.

THE STANDARD, June 18th, 1891.—Royal Botanic Society. Messrs. KELWAY, of Langport, received a silver medal for a magnificent display of hardy cut flowers, in especial Pæonies and Pyrethrums; the hybridiser is doing marvels with both these subjects.

MORNING ADVERTISER, May 29th, 1891.—Amongst hardy, herbaceous and other cut flowers, Messrs. KELWAY, of Langport, made a grand display.

DAILY NEWS, July 8th, 1891.—Royal Horticultural Society. Such well-known nurserymen as Messrs. KELWAY, Langport, contributed fine specimens of hardy flowers, and all were awarded silver medals. Messrs. KELWAY's collection included some magnificent Delphiniums.

DAILY TELEGRAPH, June 18th, 1891.—Royal Botanic Society. Messrs. KELWAY, of Langport, had a remarkable collection of hardy cut flowers, Pyrethrums, Pæonies, Poppies, Irises, and the like.

GARDENERS' CHRONICLE, May 30th, 1891.—Grand Temple Show. Of cut blooms, the wonderful show made by Messrs. KELWAY & SON, commands chief notice.

THE NORTHERN GARDENER, July 4, 1891.—Royal Horticultural Society. Amongst the miscellaneous subjects, Messrs. KELWAY & SON staged a glorious and extensive group of Hardy Flowers in grand and effective variety, deservedly gaining the Silver-Gilt Flora Medal of the Society.

NEW YORK HERALD, May 14th, 1890.—Royal Horticultural Society's Show. Very extensive was Messrs. KELWAY's show of hardy Spring Plants, for which they were awarded a SILVER BANKSIAN MEDAL.

THE GARDENERS' CHRONICLE, May 31st, 1890.—Royal Horticultural Society, May 28th and 29th. Lovers of hardy border flowers must have revelled in the wonderful wealth of these furnished to them in the various tents. They presented, probably, THE FINEST DISPLAY OF THEIR KIND seen at any similar show in London. Where all were so good, as well as so varied, it is not for us to determine precedence, but the largest exhibitors, perhaps, were Messrs. KELWAY & SON, Langport, Somerset, whose flowers, set up in masses in large boxes, staged three deep in one of the long tents, made a show of colour difficult to excel, backed by Giant Poppies, Irises in variety, double and single Pæonies, Lupins, and Delphiniums, with, in front, myriads of double and single Pyrethrums; the effect was very striking, and showed how much more telling hardy flowers are in big clumps than when too much mixed.

GARDENERS' CHRONICLE, January 11th, 1890.—The fine displays which Messrs. KELWAY & SON, of Langport, have also made at times at the Drill Hall and other large gatherings, show to what a degree of perfection the flowers of Delphiniums, Gladioli, Pæonies, Gaillardias, Pyrethrums and other flowers, have been brought. The awards at the different meetings at which they were displayed were numerous.

GARDENERS' MAGAZINE, June 28th, 1890.—Royal Botanic Society, Floral Parade and Feast of Flowers, June 26th. To the class for hardy cut flowers, Messrs. KELWAY & SON, Langport, contributed AN IMMENSE COLLECTION, consisting chiefly of Herbaceous Pæonies, Delphiniums, and Gaillardias. The flowers were of HIGH QUALITY THROUGHOUT, and the GOLD MEDAL was awarded the firm.

GARDEN, June 14th, 1890.—Hardy flowers at the Temple, June 10th. Specially was the show a sort of gala for Pæonies, Pyrethrums, Irises and Poppies, and as most of these give rich colours, they formed peculiarly attractive features. THE REMARKABLY ATTRACTIVE COLLECTION set up by Messrs. KELWAY & SON, was without doubt THE PREMIER EXHIBIT . . . and it reflects honour on this enterprising West of England firm, that they should have been able to show such an abundance of hardy flowers in such a clean, fresh condition.

THE GLADWYN IRIS. — A most desirable ornamental plant, growing anywhere, but fonder of moist spots in the shade. The plant consists of a tuft of handsome dark green leaves, 2 feet high, and in June bears purple blossoms, which give place in the autumn to large pods filled with brilliant orange-coral berries. These remain upon the open pods until the spring, during which time they prove of great value for decoration in vases, churches, &c., as their brilliancy does not fade, or their adhesive quality lessen after being cut. 50/- 100.

PÆONIES.

CUTTINGS FROM THE ENGLISH PRESS.

THE DAILY GRAPHIC, June 24th, 1891.—Royal Horticultural Society. Pæonies and hardy flowers were well represented. The whole of one side of the hall was occupied by the collection, which received a Silver Flora Medal, sent by Mr. KELWAY, from Langport, whose Pæonies ranged in tone from the richest claret to the purest white. The single ones, with their loose open petals, included some exquisite shades of pearl and rose, and among the double ones were some wonderful shades of mauve and Persian pink, while a curious variation was the Banshee, in ivory white, whose wildly dishevelled inner petals resembled rather a Japanese chrysanthemum than anything else.

DAILY GRAPHIC, June 18th, 1891.—Royal Botanic Society. Mr. KELWAY's Pæonies and Pyrethrums were very beautiful.

MORNING ADVERTISER, June 24th, 1891.—Royal Horticultural Society. One very noticeable feature of the show was the magnificent display of Pæonies by Messrs. KELWAY & SON, of Langport, Somerset, which required about 90 square feet of space.

DAILY TELEGRAPH, June 24th, 1891.—Royal Horticultural Society. From Langport, Messrs. KELWAY sent some lovely Pæonies, notably the crimson Afterglow, the snowball Alba Maxima, and the double pink Lady Godiva.

DAILY CHRONICLE, June 18th, 1891.—Royal Botanic Society. Other prominent exhibits arranged around included an immense quantity of Pæonies, Pyrethrums, Irids and Delphiniums, &c., sent from Langport, Somersetshire, by Messrs. KELWAY & SON.

THE TIMES, June 10th, 1891.—Royal Horticultural Society. Messrs. KELWAY & SON staged a large group of single and double Pyrethrums and Pæonies. Among the latter were several new forms. The dark crimson Paradoxa; a double salmon-pink, Louise Mouchelet (Moutan).

GARDEN WORK, July 18th, 1891.—Pæonies.—The improvement that has been effected in them is little short of marvellous, and a large collection, such for instance as that of Messrs. KELWAY & SON's, is of striking magnificence.

THE TIMES, June 12th, 1890.—Royal Horticultural Society's Show, Westminster, June 11th, 1890. Messrs. KELWAY's brilliantly-coloured and lavishly flowered Pæonies were again remarkable, the Pæony d'occasion was, however, the dark maroon Stanley in Messrs. KELWAY's very large collection from Langport.

THE DAILY NEWS, June 11th, 1890.—Royal Horticultural Society. The exhibits were more varied and interesting than at the previous show; of Pæonies for instance, there was a magnificent collection, extending nearly the whole length of the hall, from the Nurseries of Messrs. KELWAY and Son, Langport, the cut blooms being remarkable for their variety and fullness.

THE MORNING POST, May 29th, 1890.—The Opening of the Royal Horticultural Society's Show by the Prince of Wales, at the Temple. The Flower Show thus auspiciously inaugurated, is one of the finest exhibitions ever held under the auspices of the Society, and Mr. KELWAY's Pæonies are especially worthy of note.

THE TIMES, June 12th, 1889.—Royal Horticultural Society's Show, June 11th. A Silver-gilt Banksian Medal was adjudged to Messrs. KELWAY, of Langport, in Somerset, for a group of Pæonies, &c. The Pæonies were OF THE GREATEST MERIT. Princess Christian (award of merit), is an opulently petalled and scented white, which had a fine effect in the masses in which it was arranged. Princess Irene has large pink guard petals, and an inner ball of pale sulphur.

GARDENERS' CHRONICLE.—Messrs. KELWAY & SON are now the largest growers of Pæonies in this country.

THE GARDEN, July 5th, 1890.—HERBACEOUS PÆONIES.—The marvellous development witnessed in the Herbaceous Pæony during the last few years is something remarkable. The greatest display made by these flowers was perhaps seen at the last show of the Royal Botanic Society, in the Regent's Park, when Messrs. KELWAY & SON, of Langport, staged a very large number, comprehending in the main the finest new varieties they have raised in recent years. There is one great advantage about the Herbaceous Pæony, it will grow in almost any soil or situation, and therefore, it may find a place in every garden.

CUTTING FROM THE AMERICAN PRESS.

THE GARDEN AND FOREST, July 2nd, 1890. New York (U.S.A.).—Among the many beautiful border plants that have sprung into popularity in England in recent years, the Pæonies take foremost rank. One of the principal raisers and growers of these plants in England is Mr. KELWAY, of Langport. With a view to focussing the Pæony knowledge and material, the Royal Horticultural Society has this week held a Special Exhibition of the plants. THE EXHIBITS WERE MARVELLOUS in point of size, colour and fragrance in the flowers, Messrs. KELWAY staging a splendid array of blooms.

TREE, OR MOUTAN PÆONIES

(Pæonia Arborea).

THE GARDENERS' CHRONICLE, May 24th, 1890.—MOUTAN PÆONIES.—In the remarkable collection of varieties of Tree Pæonies exhibited at the meeting of the Royal Horticultural Society on Tuesday, 13th inst., appeared some fine blooms under the simple name of Moutan. On seeing these showy flowers, one can quite understand the applicability of Moutan—"King of Flowers,"—and no one can be surprised to learn it is the favourite garden flower of China and Japan. Some of the varieties shown by Messrs. KELWAY & SON, of Langport, who have taken a decided lead in developing the Tree Pæony, were surpassingly fine, large, and very double, and of quite regal beauty. Who was not impressed with the singular chasteness of Beatrice Kelway, a new large fringed single white variety, so well formed as to resemble a huge shapely Tulip, and awarded a Certificate of Merit? A few of the most striking double varieties were Fascinatus, rose and white; Hero, pale lavender, with a purple base, very fine; Lumen, purple and blush; Edwardsii, rosy peach, with a violet base; Elizabeth, bright puce, very double; Louise Mouchelet, salmon-pink, a charming shade of colour; Madame Stuart Low, reddish salmon, very distinct, and extra fine; Madoni, salmon-rose; Ocelata, soft rose, passing to white; and Triomphe de Vandermael, bright rose, extra fine.

JOURNAL OF HORTICULTURE, June 4th, 1891.—Grand Temple Show. Messrs. KELWAY & SON, Langport, contributed a superb collection of Pæonies, &c., and various hardy flowers which formed an important exhibit in the entrance tent, and found crowds of admirers during the two days (Silver Cup.)

DAILY CHRONICLE, May 22nd, 1888.—Royal Horticultural Society. A Silver Banksian Medal was awarded to Messrs. KELWAY & SON for a remarkable collection of Tree Pæonies, of which there were about 30 varieties.

THE TIMES, May 30th, 1890.—Royal Horticultural Society's Show at the Temple, opened by the Prince of Wales. Messrs. KELWAY's fine and brightly-coloured collection of hardy plants, from Langport, Somerset, formed an attractive contrast to the fern fronds. Tree Pæonies were opulent in size and colour. Odorata, rose and white, and the dark double Zenobia being worthy of notice.

THE TIMES, May 31st, 1889.—Royal Horticultural Show at the Temple, May 30th, 1889. Messrs. KELWAY's pink Pæonies, Agenoria and Leonard Kelway, were certificated. A Silver-gilt Medal was awarded.

DAILY TELEGRAPH, May 31st, 1889.—Summer Flower Show of the Royal Horticultural Society in Temple Gardens. Messrs. KELWAY, of Langport, Somerset, show Pæonies which might be cut from the richest pink, ruby, and white satins.

NEW TREE PÆONY (KELWAY'S HYBRID) FOR 1892.

15/- each.

Mrs. WILLIAM KELWAY.—Without exception the most lovely Tree Pæony we have ever come across. Of the purest satiny white all over, even to the covering of the carpels. It has a fine cup-shape, and is composed of about three rows of petals.

NEW TREE PÆONIES (KELWAY'S).

PYRETHRUMS.

CUTTINGS FROM ENGLISH PRESS.

MORNING POST, June 24, 1891.—R.H.S.—A marvellous variety of Pyrethrums, &c., from Messrs. Kelway.

DAILY NEWS, June 18, 1891.—R.B.S.—Messrs. Kelway & Sons, of Langport, made a grand display of Pyrethrums of almost every shade, and were awarded a Silver Medal.

EVENING STANDARD, June 11, 1890.—BOTANIC GARDEN SHOW, REGENT'S PARK.—Upon entering the great tent, visitors were struck with the very remarkable show of cut flowers of Messrs. Kelway & Son, of Langport, upon both sides of the entrance. It consisted of single and double Pæonies, single and double Pyrethrums, Delphiniums, Iris, and Amaryllids; these were exhibited here and in the next bend, and constituted one of the finest shows of cut flowers ever displayed. This firm received the Silver-Gilt Medal of the Society.

CUTTING FROM FRENCH PRESS.

REVUE HORTICOLE, 1 Juillet, 1889.—L'Exposant, M. Kelway, à bien autres jolies choses; entre autres, des PYRETHRUM à fleurs doubles de toute beauté;—Florentine, gros pompon rose pâle, à pétales très serrés, fourchus; King Oscar, fleur de forme semblable, carmin vif; Aphrodite, fleur blanc pur, ravissante; Pericles, centre jaune vif, collerettes de larges et longs pétales rose pâle. Dans les Pyrethrum à fleurs simples :—Clemence, centre jaune d'or, larges pétales carmin vif velouté; Princess of Wales, centre jaune d'or, larges pétales rose vif. Nous avons rarement vu des fleurs aussi brillantes que celles que nous venons d'indiquer.
